

ABSTRACT

Rational methods for generating protein variants are provided. Processes and systems for the high throughput directed evolution of peptides and proteins employing the method are provided.